Seeburg	44267	A	Golden Oak	1911	408
Piano Mfr: Haddorff; No stop rail.
Instrumentation: Piano with mandolin attachment.
Stack No: 408 Stack Type: Very early 4-tier, adjustable bleeds and single valves (rare). Loud-soft control: Manual lever, left end of music shelf (A-roll pianos only).
Roll Mechanism: Cast iron without rods in front of roll; Early (mechanical latch).
Pump Type: Scissors pump, conventional wooden hinge blocks; Vertical casting crankshaft supports; Cast iron 6 spoke pulley.
Coin Entry: Push-pull slide. Switch: Early (semicircular "fencepost" accumulator). Box: Cast iron housing with drawer.
Art Glass: Beveled Plain Glass.
Comments: Emerson motor, S/N 337251. The piano was advertised on Craig's list as an antique player piano. It was picked up on the South West side of Chicago and did have one original A roll. It appears to have been refinished some time ago with some non-professional restorations to the player, a few hoses replaced. No date as to when this was done. All components seem to be intact and original. Stack #408 written in pencil under the removable valves. Much dirt on the inside with a strong odor of tobacco, so guessing that it came out of a bar or tavern.

Seeburg	64039	F (piano used to restore G)	Quartered Oak	1915	----
Piano Mfr: Haddorff. Comments: Gutted and case cut down. The gutted Seeburg style F was shipped to David Ramey, Jr., who had been hired to restore a fire damaged Seeburg style G orchestrion (serial number unknown due to fire damage). The sides of the style F were removed and the piano back replaced the one in the damaged Seeburg G. The Seeburg G had completely disassembled, including the cabinet, with some of the parts stored in the in a building used for restoring cars, which was destroyed by fire. The original piano back was destroyed along with the top of the cabinet and perhaps some interior parts. Years later, the damaged Seeburg G was purchased by a new owner, who also brought multiple Seeburg parts, some of which could have from the Seeburg G. The previous owner had other Seeburg instruments and had also disassembled them and no longer remembered what parts went with which instrument. Dave Ramey' Jr. picked through the parts in an attempt to decide which parts were most likely from the Seeburg G. The assortment of parts included multiple art glass panels, piano stacks, drum chests, pipe chests, and pipework. David Ramey, Jr., provided a similar vintage roll frame, pump, coin mechanism, and electric motor. The stack, serial #4567, dates from 1913, so the Seeburg G was probably manufactured circa 1913. The bass drum is new with vintage hardware, but the player mechanisms are all original. Even after refinishing the rebuilt cabinet, charred veneer can still be seen on the lower bass side of the cabinet. The restoration of the piano and internal mechanisms was completed as of December, 2020. The Seeburg G now bears the serial number from the model F, #64039.

Comments: Emerson Motor #73610DL. Restored about 18 years ago. Case refinished in original silver gray quartered oak finish color. Originally sold to a tavern in Reddick Illinois, (Gianottie), then to an ice cream parlor (McGinnes), then moved during the war years (1940) to an upstairs dance hall above the ice cream parlor. Then it was purchased by a private individual in about 1946, was in a house basement, suffered 2 floods (about 13 inches of water), was put in storage in a garage in Kankakee Illinois, was there for many years, and that is where the current owner purchased it. He knew of this piano and he waited 35 years for the owner to make up his mind to sell it.

Piano Mfr: Western Electric; Hammers are original, date not yet known
Instrumentation: Piano with Mandolin Attachment.
Stack Type: Seeburg stack (late, 2-tier).
Roll Mechanism: Plate metal sides, floating guide rods over tracker bar, serial number 1198.
Pump Type: Horizontal bellows, wood pump sticks, fixed center board, floor mounted, with cast aluminum flat belt pulley.
Coin Entry: Not original; dime slot. Switch: Ratchet wheel counter, flat copper wiper-blade switch, cast iron box. Box: Cash box is missing.
Art Glass: Original top and lower (single panel type) front is missing, and have been replaced with home made parts. No art glass.
Other Attributes: Roll mechanism serial number 1198.
Comments: The piano has J.P. Seeburg cast into the frame instead of Western Electric. The original top and lower (single panel type) fronts are missing, and have been replaced with home made frames containing large sheets of red and green Plexiglas. The player mechanism appears to have had some work done at some time in the distant past, but it still has most of the original tracker bar tubing which is solidified. A suction box has been added, but the piano does not play at all presently. The piano action with its original hammers, the case, and piano strung back all appear to be in very good condition. Motor is not original; has an Ampico grand motor installed. Piano was purchased by its former owner in a restaurant auction in or around Washington, DC around 2010. It was found advertised for sale in November 2015 at their home in Silver Spring, MD, just outside of Washington, DC.

Comments: Original Emerson motor s/n #570032, type 7361MN. This Seeburg coin piano evidently spent its entire commercial life in a Fall River, Wisconsin, local tavern. The instrument is in mint unrestored condition, but will require a complete case refinishing and interior mechanical restoration. It has never been wet or abused and is complete and intact. There has been some "back alley" mechanical work on it, but nothing to detract from the originality of the instrument.

Western Electric Piano Mfr: Western Electric; Date stamped on piano hammers: "N 14 1926" Instrumentation: Piano with mandolin attachment, and standard xylophone (see comments). Roll Mechanism: Plate metal sides, floating guide rods over tracker bar, serial number 1547. Art Glass: Beveled art glass. Comments: Piano hammer date stamp is only on two original (removed and in my possession) hammers (19 and 20). An inked line may represent a portion of a "U" prior to the "N," but cannot confirm. The rest of the date is inked clearly and boldly. Full restoration by D.C. Ramey, 12/2011-05/2012. David Ramey Jr. installed a simple device on the xylophone that mechanically keeps the reiterating pallet valves from working when you want it to play single stroke. When it moves back out of the way, the xylophone reiterates as usual.	163171	X	Oak	1926	----

Seeburg Piano Mfr: Seeburg. Instrumentation: Piano, and 61 flute pipes (24 open, 37 stopped), plus 37 metal Quintadena pipes--96 total pipes under keybed. Stack Type: Late 2-tier stack (common). Roll Mechanism: Original MO roll frame missing, replaced with Western Electric 65-note roll frame. Component Color Above Keyboard: Black; Below Keyboard: Black. Art Glass: Scenic artistry on some inset arched wood panels; with original music rack. Other Attributes: New tab stops: MIDI, Organ Only, Organ On, 8 Foot Diapason, Melodia, Dolce, Super Octave, Play/Stop, Rewind, and Tremolo. Comments: Purchased in 2003 from an owner in Pittsburg, PA area. Someone had previously begun work on it, removing (and disposing of) the roll frame, its mounting board, and all of its primary and lock-and-cancel valves. The blower was missing; now replaced with an external unit that supplies both vacuum and pipe pressure from a single 1 HP "regenerative" blower, using a "spill" process for regulation. Rather than restore it, the current owner decided to convert it to play style A music rolls, as well as play and record MIDI data streams. The tracker bar connects to a pneumatic-to-electric chest that provides signals enabling the electronics to drive the magnets for piano and organ notes, as well as for control functions. The original set of pallet valves under the keys were left intact, to allow manual playing of the organ. Both the pallet valves and the original tracker bar cutout unit were re-conditioned and their rubber tubing teed into the pneumatic-to-electric relay chest input ports, which obviated the need to cover up the holes in the tracker bar during manual playing. The MIDI interface uses hardware and software designed and freely shared by Thorsten Klose in Germany.	168715	MO single manual	Off White	1929	----
